

Finances and Management

We recognize that NNTC members want accountability and transparency from their governing body. The NNTC Finance department works to the highest standards. Annual “clean” audits confirm that all NNTC finances are in order. As the organization has grown, there has been a need to change how information is shared. To this end, there will be an annual report summarizing the activities, revenues, and expenditures for NNTC which will be made available on this website.

Related societies such as Fraser Thompson Indian Services Society and Nlaka’pamux Services Society follow the rules of the BC Societies Act for financial reporting. NNTC related corporate entities follow the rules of the BC Business Corporations Act and any additional terms the shareholders or partners have agreed to in terms of financial accountability and reporting.
